This wine is a special edition of Viña Valle Secreto, inspired by the "Beaujolais Noveau" concept from the south of France, developed based on a very different and entertaining winemaking process.

CLIMATE AND SOIL

The terroir corresponds to a foothill piedmont, characterized by alluvial and colluvial, dry land, with a climate of high temperature fluctuations between day and night, a characteristic condition of a continental climate.

VINIFICATION

This wine is made under the concept of "carbonic maceration", the grapes are processed inside the tanks without crushing or opening the berries, then 30% of whole clusters with their stalks are added on top of the berries. Alcoholic fermentation is expected to begin naturally with native yeasts. It is tasted until the beginning of fermentation is felt, at which time manual "pisoneos" are made, these grape movements are made from the top of the vat. This helps to release more concentrated aromas.
